The Katie Cake Story

Meet Katie...

Our daughter Katie is full of life, imagination, and has a love for stories. Very close to Katie's third birthday, we would read the story of Curious George's birthday party to Katie. Katie quickly caught on and knew that her own birthday party was in the near future. It seemed like everyday Katie would tell us that all she wanted for her birthday was a party hat and a cake. Sounds simple enough, right? Well, it was not that simple for us to grant the wish of this very special little girl. You see Katie has severe food allergies and it seemed pretty impossible to make a cake that she was able to eat.

We then put in a call to Granny Lala and told her about Katie and her upcoming birthday. That all she wanted was a cake and a party hat. Granny Lala told us that she would work on it and that Katie would have her cake on her birthday. We then wrote out a list of Katie's allergies and sent it to Granny Lala. The list was pretty long... gluten, eggs, soy, lentils, all nuts, dairy, rice, beans, corn, strawberries, oranges, tomatoes, peas, apricots, melon and fish.

We were hopeful for the cake... but with Katie's allergies, we honestly didn't expect much. To our delight Granny Lala made a cake in time for Katie's birthday! When we brought out the cake to Katie, her little eyes got so big and her smile stretched from ear to ear... what a great gift to give to a child. My eyes filled with tears... I was just so excited to see my daughter have a party with a real cake. Sounds silly, I know but it was a day I didn't think I would ever see. And here's the best part... the cake was the best cake we have ever had...by far!

Even the guests without food allergies were raving about this creation! The cake was such a hit that they are now the number one seller from Granny Lala's. And now they are here for you to enjoy... so go ahead, try a Katie Cake. When you do... think of Katie, the three year old who only wanted a party hat and a cake...

...a Katie Cake.
